Life Together

Lindsborg Covenant Church

Message from Pastor Darrell

For centuries now, beginning perhaps with St. Augustine in the fourth century, Christian theologians and teachers have asserted that there is a mother sin that gives birth to all our other sins: pride. Pride was the very first sin and the downfall of Lucifer (see Isaiah 14:12-14). Pride was also the very first human sin and the downfall of Adam and Eve (see Gen 3:4-6). And with a little careful reflection it is not hard to see how pride lay beneath and behind most of the sin stories in the Bible.

Pride is the root of our problem. But what is it, exactly? Well, in essence, pride is a preoccupation with self. I think about myself. I talk about myself. I defend myself, promote myself, and generally engage in activities that have various degrees of self-interest. It can manifest itself either as rank arrogance ("I am always the smartest person in the room.") or low self-esteem ("I am a pathetic excuse for a human being."), but either way, if I am preoccupied with myself, I am caught in the trap of pride.

How do we extricate ourselves from this trap? What is the antidote? If I try to think "humble thoughts" about myself, I will either succeed or fail. If I succeed, I may become proud of my humility. If I fail, I may berate myself for my miserable condition. Either way, I am still consumed with me. If anything, trying to be humble only exacerbates my pride.

So what are we to do? I want to suggest an antidote that might at first seem odd, if not counter intuitive: thanksgiving. I am not talking about the holiday, because ironically, we have somehow managed to turn the fourth Thursday in November (and the following Friday) into a frenzy of preoccupation with self. I am talking about expressing our gratitude to God.

Our culture tends to think about giving thanks as a way of being polite. When the nice lady at the bank gives our child a piece of candy we prompt them to say, "Thank you." When Aunt Jane gives our children hand-knit sweaters for Christmas, we make them sit down and write thank-you notes. Giving thanks is a courtesy in our culture, a way of being polite. And indeed, isn't it much more pleasant to serve a grateful person than an entitled and selfish one? But what if giving thanks is more important, and more powerful, than that.

The Bible makes a big deal about being thankful to God. I counted nearly 150 references to it throughout Scripture. But I think God is after more than civility, politeness, or even kindness. I think He is after our purity. I think gratitude is an antidote for pride.

Consider this: when we stop to think about specific ways God has blessed us, and then we express our gratitude to Him for those things, it not only reminds us that we are not the author of our own life or the source of our own blessings, but it pulls us out of ourselves. Our focus shifts from me to He. (I know, that is grammatically incorrect, but it rhymes.)

Humility is a fruit of the Spirit, so we cannot make ourselves humble by direct effort. But we can cultivate humility by practicing gratitude. When we say "Thanks" to God we begin to drain the swamp of pride in our hearts. We shift our attention away from ourselves to our Creator. Now we are gazing on the One who is good, pleasing, and perfect. And the longer we look at Him, and the more we adore and delight in Him, the more like Him we become. And in this way, gratitude becomes an indirect antidote to pride.

So, perhaps thanksgiving is underrated. Instead of thinking of it as a courtesy, maybe we should think of it as a cleansing agent, powerful enough to purge us of the mother of all other sins. Doesn't that lend a little more substance to the phrase "Happy Thanksgiving!"?

Christmas Charities

Angel Tree Gift Tree for Children

Residents of Lindsborg will have an opportunity to help local children celebrate Christmas. Angel tags with information about these children's needs are placed on trees in the local banks and will be available starting November 20. Simply pick an angel tag from the tree, write your name on a card at the bank, purchase a new gift (at least $20), wrap the present, and return the gift to the bank where you originally picked the angel tag. Gifts must be returned by Friday, December 6.

Bethany Home Christmas Party

Bethany Home is asking for Christmas gifts again this year. The Christmas party will be held Thursday, December 12. They would like each church to donate 20 gifts and 10 dozen cookies. They do not want us to wrap the gifts. There is a sign up sheet on the Information Table along with a list of suggested gifts. We would like the gifts by November 24. The cookies can be brought either to the church or directly to Bethany Home. If you bring to Bethany Home, please put them on the table in the kitchen south of the Activity Room. The kitchen is on the east side of the hall. Thank you all so much for all of the help you give Bethany Home. They truly appreciate it. If you have any questions, you can call Carol Duerksen at 227-2113.

Community Christmas Baskets

Members of the community are collecting nonperishable foods and paper products. The Covenant Church has been asked to be responsible for canned meat, (chicken, tuna, chili, stew) hamburger helper, children's tooth past and brushes, shampoo, deodorant, peanut butter, cereal, all sizes children's socks. There is a collection box at the Information Table for our contributions. Deadline is December 9.

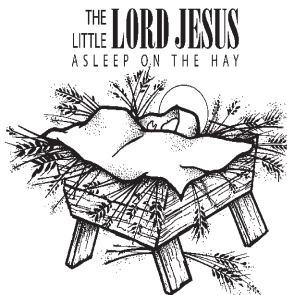

Monetary donations are welcome also. Checks may be made payable to TACOL with a memo "Christmas Baskets" and left in the church office.

Operation Christmas Child

It's that time of year again! Shoeboxes are available in the Hospitality Room and need to be returned to the church by Saturday, November 16. Information regarding a possible packing party will be shared soon. Donations for postage are also welcome.

If you are personally packing your own box/boxes and wish to track their destination, please do the following. Each shoebox needs a $9 donation to provide for collecting, processing, shipping and other project costs. If you make this donation online, you can follow your box and receive a tracking label. Attach the label to the shoebox and use the look-up tool to find out the country where your box will be delivered with the message of Christ's love.

Thank you for your participation in helping those in need and sharing the hope of the Gospel!
